

Testimonial for Martin Westhorp Quickfire Training

I first met Martin at a Business Over Breakfast event in Bolton. After an initial discussion I knew immediately that he would be the ideal person to assist me in finding a way to work more effectively and economically.

I instructed Martin to provide specific training in respect of using Excel tools to cut out unnecessary repetition by automating processes wherever possible. In particular we looked at data capture, data processing and using tools such as pivot tables and formulae to provide reporting methods.

Martin is incredibly knowledgeable in all things excel related, but what is most impressive is his ability to distil what I had previously believed to be complex processes into easy to understand and practical tips.

The training that Martin provided has introduced a much more efficient way of working with different types of data, which in turn has led to savings in both time and money. The reporting tools, such as pivot tables and charts, have been invaluable in providing a more succinct way of providing information to senior management.

If you are looking to begin using Excel, wish to learn more about what it can do, or wanting to use all of its tools for greater business management, I could not recommend Martin more highly. His teaching ability will unlock potential that will save you time, money any many stressful moments screaming at your computer for not doing what you wanted it to do.
